

Creation as Emanation: The Origin of Diversity in Albert the Great's on the Causes and the Procession of the Universe (Publications in Medieval Studies)

Examining Albert's reading of The Book of Causes, this text asks: how does he view the relation between faith and reason to identify creation with emanation from God; and how does he understand Platonism and Aristotelianism to find in a 5th-century Neoplatonist the key to Aristotle's meaning.
