

A Call to Service: Making Faith Matter: With Our Lives. In Our Communities. Through Our Churches.

Church in trouble, Doing Christians needed. The denominational protestant church in America is in decline. The non-denominational protestant church in America is growing. The biggest difference between them is the core belief, coupled with action, by the non-denominational church that serving others is a driving force in the life of a Christian. Instead of cultivating believing Christians who stop short of acting out the prime directive of Jesus to serve others churches need to spend as much time enabling and expecting action for the least of these as they do for the traditional elements salvation, bible knowledge and cultural moral positions. A Call to Service provides a resource to engage, enable and empower individuals to become doing Christians helping usher in the kingdom of God here on earth.
